SPIRITUAL DIRECTION TRAINING PROGRAM

Are you interested in strengthening your gifts for spiritual care-giving, prayer, and discernment, both one-on-one and in groups? Baylor’s George W. Truett Theological Seminary is offering a spiritual direction training program taught by Dr. Angela Reed, associate professor of practical theology and director of spiritual formation. Spiritual direction is a historic ministry of the church that involves accompanying others in prayerful reflection and conversation as they attend to God’s presence and calling in their lives and grow in prayer and Christian maturity. The courses include study, prayer, and practical ministry experiences with Baylor undergrads and in congregations. This certificate program requires a four-semester commitment in order to receive certification in spiritual direction. The first cohort meets fall 2017-spring 2019. Course fees will involve two payments of $846 each due in August 2017 and August 2018, plus books and personal spiritual direction fees. Participants may include Baylor University faculty and staff, Truett Seminary alumni, alumni of other theological institutions, and other interested applicants. Prerequisites in biblical and theological education and character references will be required for admission. The deadline for the completed application is Aug. 18, 2017. For more information and application instructions, contact Truett_SpiritualForm@baylor.edu.

CERTIFICATE OF MINISTRY PROGRAM

Baylor’s George W. Truett Theological Seminary offers online courses for laypeople and ministers who desire more formal theological education, but do not desire an academic degree. These courses are offered as part of the Truett Certificate Program and are open to students of all ages and from all backgrounds. These non-academic courses have no grades, no due dates, and only modest writing. They fit a level of study that is more advanced than Sunday School, but not as advanced as a master’s degree. Each $250 course fee includes paper copies of the corresponding textbooks and any other resources that might be needed. Additional information can be found at baylor.edu/truett/certificate. For registration or payment options, please contact the program office at Truett_Certificate@baylor.edu or (254) 710-6351.
